

HARVEY J. LEE PASSES AWAY

Harvey J. Lee, a resident of Phoenix for twenty-five years, and one of the best known citizens of the valley, passed away this morning at one o'clock. Mr. Lee had been in bad health for the past five years, having sustained a stroke of paralysis, which crippled him to such an extent, that he was practically confined to his home, 1501 West Washington.

A few weeks ago, his condition took a turn for the worse, and during the past few days the end has been imminent.

Mr. Lee was connected with the Arizona Republican for about 16 years, having been at the bottom, he demonstrated keen business abilities, and in time was given the important position of business manager, which position he filled capably. He was liked by all his business associates and employees, and always had the happy faculty of having a good word for everyone.

Mr. Lee is survived by his wife, who has been his constant companion through his years of illness. Family arrangements have not as yet been made.

WITH MAN'S WEAPON WOMEN SEEK RIGHTS

(Continued from Page One)

Women. When women left the home, where they worked making clothes for the army, and went into factories to make clothes for all men, then they should have been given the ballot. Women have starved on $8 a week. There are four million of them. Working women are trying to keep their homes on a wage that makes civilization.

Women are the most helpless class in industry today. Nations that have kept their women in a condition of servitude. It has become the habit of men to regard women as a thing to be used. No class of men have fought for freedom as long as women have. In America, women were not with the negro when freed.

The administration is making enormous material out of Wilson's attitude as a friend of labor. Is he a true friend who sets friendly willing 1,500,000 unorganized railroad workers, waited three weeks to get seven minutes' hearing. His request that the benefits of the 8 hour law be extended to all railroad workers was ignored. "If Wilson had been the strong, solicitous friend of labor he would have given the fruit of their labor to all," she continued.

"We began the national movement in 1912 with 9 states on our side. In 1914, women, for the first time in history, held the balance of power. We could plunk ourselves into a national fight then, but not before, and that is why we never campaigned against a republican party, though that party ignored our demands for 34 years."

"Why not be for the socialist party," asked a member of the audience, "inasmuch as that party's stand on suffrage has been pure and of long standing?"

Miss Winslow explained that the suffragists are not interested in the success of any candidate. Efforts are being concentrated to swing the woman vote to Hughes, because Hughes alone of the opposition candidates has a chance to win, and means to carry out the defeat of democracy, the end in view.

Mr. Ashurst is Peeled

In answer to a question as to why the party opposed Ashurst and Hayden, Miss Winslow turned the battery of her truths on the Arizona senator. His well known habit of using words came in for some neat sarcasm comment, and then she said that because he depended for his job on the votes of women, the flower-speaking Arizona was for suffrage. She told how he had forced a vote on the suffrage amendment, knowing that it would fail miserably. When the women were organizing huge suffrage demonstrations all over the nation, and how his official black-eye in the senate had hurt the cause. She asked why if Senator Owen could force through his pet corrupt practices, by threat to hold up administration measures, the senators from the suffrage states could not, being professedly the friends of suffrage, force a favorable vote on the Anthony amendment.

Some one asked what she thought of Ashurst's statement on the same platform that if President Wilson had tried to get the amendment out of committee, he would have been impeached, and Miss Winslow took five minutes off for chuckles.

Ashurst's imagination is cracking under the strain. Just when he was trying to get the amendment out of committee, he would have been impeached, and Miss Winslow took five minutes off for chuckles.

Ashurst's imagination is cracking under the strain. Just when he was trying to get the amendment out of committee, he would have been impeached, and Miss Winslow took five minutes off for chuckles.

As to labor, Miss Winslow had a startling new viewpoint to develop in her audience. At the same time four men representing 40,000 railroad men were asking Wilson for an eight hour law, one man representing 1,500,000 unorganized railroad workers, waited three weeks to get seven minutes' hearing. His request that the benefits of the 8 hour law be extended to all railroad workers was ignored. "If Wilson had been the strong, solicitous friend of labor he would have given the fruit of their labor to all," she continued.

"We began the national movement in 1912 with 9 states on our side. In 1914, women, for the first time in history, held the balance of power. We could plunk ourselves into a national fight then, but not before, and that is why we never campaigned against a republican party, though that party ignored our demands for 34 years."

"Why not be for the socialist party," asked a member of the audience, "inasmuch as that party's stand on suffrage has been pure and of long standing?"

Miss Winslow explained that the suffragists are not interested in the success of any candidate. Efforts are being concentrated to swing the woman vote to Hughes, because Hughes alone of the opposition candidates has a chance to win, and means to carry out the defeat of democracy, the end in view.

Mr. Ashurst is Peeled

In answer to a question as to why the party opposed Ashurst and Hayden, Miss Winslow turned the battery of her truths on the Arizona senator. His well known habit of using words came in for some neat sarcasm comment, and then she said that because he depended for his job on the votes of women, the flower-speaking Arizona was for suffrage. She told how he had forced a vote on the suffrage amendment, knowing that it would fail miserably. When the women were organizing huge suffrage demonstrations all over the nation, and how his official black-eye in the senate had hurt the cause. She asked why if Senator Owen could force through his pet corrupt practices, by threat to hold up administration measures, the senators from the suffrage states could not, being professedly the friends of suffrage, force a favorable vote on the Anthony amendment.

Some one asked what she thought of Ashurst's statement on the same platform that if President Wilson had tried to get the amendment out of committee, he would have been impeached, and Miss Winslow took five minutes off for chuckles.

Ashurst's imagination is cracking under the strain. Just when he was trying to get the amendment out of committee, he would have been impeached, and Miss Winslow took five minutes off for chuckles.

As to labor, Miss Winslow had a startling new viewpoint to develop in her audience. At the same time four men representing 40,000 railroad men were asking Wilson for an eight hour law, one man representing 1,500,000 unorganized railroad workers, waited three weeks to get seven minutes' hearing. His request that the benefits of the 8 hour law be extended to all railroad workers was ignored. "If Wilson had been the strong, solicitous friend of labor he would have given the fruit of their labor to all," she continued.

"We began the national movement in 1912 with 9 states on our side. In 1914, women, for the first time in history, held the balance of power. We could plunk ourselves into a national fight then, but not before, and that is why we never campaigned against a republican party, though that party ignored our demands for 34 years."

"Why not be for the socialist party," asked a member of the audience, "inasmuch as that party's stand on suffrage has been pure and of long standing?"

Miss Winslow explained that the suffragists are not interested in the success of any candidate. Efforts are being concentrated to swing the woman vote to Hughes, because Hughes alone of the opposition candidates has a chance to win, and means to carry out the defeat of democracy, the end in view.

Mr. Ashurst is Peeled

In answer to a question as to why the party opposed Ashurst and Hayden, Miss Winslow turned the battery of her truths on the Arizona senator. His well known habit of using words came in for some neat sarcasm comment, and then she said that because he depended for his job on the votes of women, the flower-speaking Arizona was for suffrage. She told how he had forced a vote on the suffrage amendment, knowing that it would fail miserably. When the women were organizing huge suffrage demonstrations all over the nation, and how his official black-eye in the senate had hurt the cause. She asked why if Senator Owen could force through his pet corrupt practices, by threat to hold up administration measures, the senators from the suffrage states could not, being professedly the friends of suffrage, force a favorable vote on the Anthony amendment.

Some one asked what she thought of Ashurst's statement on the same platform that if President Wilson had tried to get the amendment out of committee, he would have been impeached, and Miss Winslow took five minutes off for chuckles.

Ashurst's imagination is cracking under the strain. Just when he was trying to get the amendment out of committee, he would have been impeached, and Miss Winslow took five minutes off for chuckles.

As to labor, Miss Winslow had a startling new viewpoint to develop in her audience. At the same time four men representing 40,000 railroad men were asking Wilson for an eight hour law, one man represent-

DRUNKARD'S JOY THE BLISS OF INTOXICATION

(Continued from Page One)

Amos Betts contented himself with a description of the work of the corporation commission, ending with a history of his work, fitting him to a seat on the commission. Jack Bolin, C. C. Case, D. P. Johnson, Jesse J. Boyce and Charles B. Howe all proved equal to the occasion and passed out a few remarks. Boyce developed into the humorist of the occasion, bringing in old jokes about land reform, local reform, tax reform and then, then—oh yes—it was chloroform.

Congressman Hayden proved that like his friend from the north, Henry Ashurst, he had assimilated a good many of the ways and manners of the distinguished orators of congress. He illustrated that his office had been intensely economical, and that if re-elected he would continue to steer the ship of state along the same course.

He praised President Wilson to the extent of his ability, stating that if it were not for his jokes about the husbands, sons and sweethearts of the women in the audience would not be with them last night, but facing some foreign enemy with a rifle in hand. The congressman failed to mention the fact that at present there are one thousand Arizona men and boys on the Mexican border facing the "enemy" with rifle in hand, and his shoulder on hip.

He launched into an attack on the Congressional Union, which was vitriolic in the extreme. He explained that the original suffragettes were known as the National American Woman's Suffrage association and that they believed in obtaining woman suffrage along non-partisan lines. The new organization which he termed an offshoot of Mr. Buckhurst's militant body in England, had evidently obtained a resting place under Mr. Hayden's skin, as he explained that he would take no distinction from the leaders of that organization, and that he had no tolerance of their motives.

He stated that woman suffrage was not the issue of this campaign. He substituted peace.

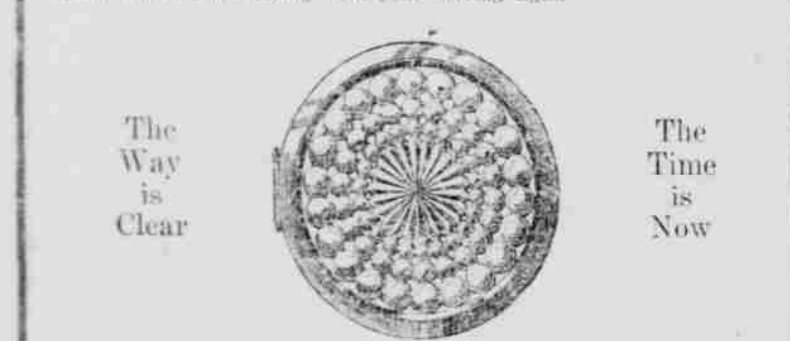

Mr. Hayden took great pride in pointing out the enormous amount of money he had obtained for the state of Arizona from the national treasury, never once using the uglier application of "kick".

Ben Nathan Newby of California, who explained that his wife was an Arizona, was the last and principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Newby started out as if he were going to make a regular speech, but before he had gone very far it developed that he was going to keep up the same old policy of criticism. He devoted the greater portion of his remarks to an attack on Col. Roosevelt.

He detailed the president's nets from the start of the administration to the present time, took up the Louisiana matter, but neglected to explain why "we are to send to fight." Told about the taking of Vera Cruz, but said nothing of the soldier boys killed there, stated that the policy of Roosevelt of protecting its citizens in foreign countries was not right, and that Mr. Wilson did not promise to protect American interests abroad. He was rather heavy in his references to the Mexican situation, skipping here and there with an abandon worthy of a really humorous cause.

UTILIZE THE GLARE--

Treat the other fellow the way you like to be treated. But don't do this at the expense of your lights. There is one way of stopping the glare without interfering with your driving light.

WARNER LENZ

Stop before the COP stops you and try a pair on our money-back-if dissatisfied plan.

MOTOR SUPPLY CO.

315-317 North Central Ave.

GOVERNOR JS BECOMING A REAL ORATOR

(Continued from Page One)

of "those silk stockings," and that he did not care whether it met with their approval or not.

"I did my duty," said the governor, "and those fellows who pay tribute to the British crown cannot put it over me."

The governor concluded his remarks with a plea to the common people, and stated that he intended to continue on his present course.

Following the governor the state democratic candidates were introduced in turn. Starting with Sidney P. O'Brien, they went down the line ending with Charles R. Howe, who stated that he had caught a bad cold at a republican meeting was in poor voice, but at that demonstrated that he was about the best thing the

PREXY WILSON'S REITERATION OF THE ISSUES

(Continued from Page One)

In favor of drawing the United States into the European war and they have been told, with abundant evidence, that it is probable that the republicans succeeded, we shall enter upon a policy of exploitation of our neighbors in Mexico."

Continuing his discussion of foreign affairs, Mr. Wilson declared that although the leaders of the republican party demanded that the rights of Americans be protected everywhere on one occasion the "republican machine" was able to compel a majority of its members in the house of representatives to vote that American citizens had no right to travel on the high seas."

He added: "If their leaders believe in the rights of Americans, why don't their followers? If their leaders are so stiff to see that Americans get their rights everywhere, why do these men vote that Americans shall get their rights nowhere? One of the most regrettable incidents of American history is that there should have been found men in the congress of the United States willing to vote in that sense."

Mr. Wilson reiterated his advocacy of a league of nations to preserve the peace of the world and attacked the leaders of the progressive party, who, he said, had betrayed the rank and file. He also declared that the selection of a congress is just as important as the election of a president.

RUMANIA'S TASK TO HOLD BACK THE TEUTONS

(Continued from Page One)

German line on a two-kilometer front east of Bello-en-Santerre today, and also the hamlet of Gernemont and the sugar refinery near Abbaucourt, according to the official communication issued tonight. Eight hundred men were made prisoner.

Central Powers Gain Ground

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—(Via London).—Troops of the Central powers have gained ground in the vicinity of Frontier passes of Budzeiland in Transylvania, says today's German statement. Three hundred Rumanians were taken prisoner and six machine guns were clerical and lay delegates was clear cut, the clergy voting to adopt the proposal and the lay delegates rejecting it.

LAYMEN KILLED ANTI-DIVORCE PROPOSITION

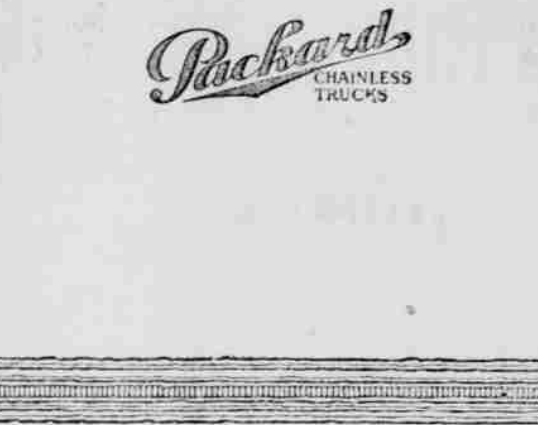

(Continued from Page One)

because "the real source of action and the real machinery of the church is in congress." He asserted that the forces of reaction are in control of the republicans in congress.

Scope! Your sales horizon is no wider than your delivery zone. Broaden both now—with dependable, money-and trouble-saving, 100-miles-a-day Packard trucks.

McARTHUR BROTHERS
Phoenix—Douglas—Tucson—Bisbee

An Ever Increasing Business

There's a Reason

THE Dorris-Heyman Furniture Company endeavors to give you value received for the amount expended. We are always ready to accept suggestions for the betterment of our business.

When you purchase anything from this establishment we want you to know that you are buying the best, for we feature nationally advertised lines, which are conceded to be the best in their respective lines.

Your patronage is invited.

Dorris-Heyman Furniture Co.

The Hunting Season is now On

Peter's Shells

"Steel where Steel Belongs"

You are assured of a limit bag if you take along a supply of PETER'S SHELLS.

The complete absence of trouble coupled with their uniform performance, adds considerably to the pleasure of the day.

Do not forget that 1916 License. We issue them.

Talbot & Hubbard, Inc.

Hardware

"At the Sign of the Dog"

Like Chicken Dinner?

You bet, everyone likes a good chicken dinner and plenty of good fresh eggs.

Why not let us sell you a dandy one-acre chicken ranch, so you can raise your own chickens and eggs and be independent.

Only $25.00 Cash, $10.00 Monthly

Just Phone 429 and we will call for you and show you

H. C. Thomas Real Estate & Inv. Co.

Thomas Building, Phone 429

Now Under New Management

and equipped to do first class work. Starting and ignition systems repaired. Gould Battery Service Station.

ARIZONA BATTERY CHARGING CO.

221 East Adams